Mechanisms of action of garlic and onion: an update. Garlic has been used to treat cardiovascular disease for many years. It is widely believed that the garlic contains a compound that has antioxidant properties, in addition to many other effects on the cardiovascular system. The anti-atherosclerotic effect of garlic has been shown in laboratory animals and in patients. Many of the beneficial effects of garlic are thought to be due to its polyphenolic compounds. Onion has been found to have beneficial effects on the cardiovascular system as well, such as reduction in blood pressure and cholesterol. To date, the mechanism of action of both garlic and onion has not been completely elucidated.

What's New in the Adobe Photoshop 2021 (Version 22.4.3)?

DHS 'Privacy Update' Doesn't Go Far Enough: Privacy Inc. DHS pushed the privacy update in March 2018. On May 8, the Dept of Health and Human Services (HHS) posted its response on the Federal Register. On May 5, the Office of Civil Rights (OCR) posted the Federal Register notice regarding its "Responsive Website Model for Online Behavioral Consent." The Federal Register notice was posted on May 8, 2018. The response is here. The Government Accountability Office (GAO) reviewed the "Privacy Update" and issued a report on it on June 6, 2018. Here is what we learned: Privacy Policies Still Flaw A quick and short summary of the Privacy Update: Updates rules that cover what companies have to collect when they collect users' personal information, such as information about their use of a service; how long the company has the information; how it has to use it; and how the company must disclose it. It applies to companies that: Do business with the federal government Collect data on federal government users Provide information to the federal government Public companies that do any of the above can't collect personal information without users' consent, except for special cases. They must: Include clear information about the company's identity; When collected, provide users with the ability to opt-in to or opt-out of certain uses and disclosures of information. The Privacy Update applies to companies that: Provide a government website or app that allows users to access government programs, services, and benefits Interact with the federal government via email, chat, text, video, telephone, or any other methods Manage a database of information about federal government users (if the company collects data about users that doesn't primarily identify them) Among other issues: The update fails to address the Privacy Rule that doesn't mandate different legal obligations for publicly-traded companies and non-public companies. It doesn't require companies to conduct privacy impact assessments (PIAs), which are required under the Privacy Rule. Instead, the update "requires a general privacy notice." Companies can collect information without providing notice (as long as they post the notice on a website). Privacy Update Doesn't Go Far Enough
